TWO DRUGGISTS UNDER PROBATION TRIAL BLOCKED BY CRIFTY DEALERS

State Board Continues Them in Same Class—Adjournment Reached.

Licenses of two Virginia druggists, who have been under probation because of charges made against them were continued in the same class at the closing session of the State Board of Pharmacy, held at the Capitol yesterday. While the details on these matters are never made public, the presumption from this action is that the two men have not reformed to such an extent as to justify the removal of their probation, but yet are not in such condition as to be dangerous to the public. It has been the duty of this board, during the past year or two, to revoke and suspend several licenses when the holders were addicted to liquor or bad habits to such an extent as to be a menace to the public.

Other business transacted was merely routine, the board reaching adjournment to meet on the fourth Tuesday in April.

WOMEN WORKERS NEED FRANCHISE

Dr. Eastman Says They Could Protect Themselves With Ballot.

ERA OF FEMALE INDUSTRY

Women Strikers Unheard Because They Lacked Political Power.

"Women's work, for the greater part, in this industrial age, has passed out of the home into the factory and market," declared Dr. Max Eastman, of Columbia University, New York, last night when he addressed about 250 members and friends of the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia in the auditorium of the Jefferson Hotel.

"The United States, according to the present census," continued the speaker, "is out in the industrial world trying to earn a living. And the percentage is smaller here than in any other civilized country. The only solution of the problem is to give the women the defense of political reformation. To accomplish this end organization is needed; organization such as has given labor the power it now wields."

More Men Present.
The audience which heard Dr. Eastman was composed largely of women. About fifty men were also present, and many of them, as well as women, took advantage of the speaker's offer to answer any question relating to the subject which is interesting most of the civilized world.

Miss Mary Johnston, who introduced Dr. Eastman, spoke briefly of the suffrage movement, and declared it to be a widely spread, concerted and determined effort to change the form of the present government from an aristocracy to a democracy.

In opening his address Dr. Eastman said he would not speak of the militant movement, because in this country there is nothing to militate against. In England he pronounced the politicians to be more obnoxious than in America, because, he said, politicians will promise anything.

More Than Justice.
"One of the chief arguments of the suffragettes," said Dr. Eastman, "is justice. Many say that if a woman wants to vote, let her vote. But why she wants to vote, is not one's business, but the business of the state. Why this justice argument on the shelf and stop talking about it. As for the purification of politics by giving the ballot to the women—another worthwhile argument, though I admit that it would probably eliminate temporarily the powers of corruption in a city like New York."

"The attitude of men that they must preserve the innocence of women I say is morally wrong. There will be no foundation of purity by woman's vote. They will do the body politic no harm. It will bring politics a little nearer home."

"The true democracy is to ask all citizens what they are interested in having done."

Women Seek Living.
"The place for woman is in the home," argue those who oppose women's votes. They plead for motherhood, but because of political conditions, one of every five women in this country is seeking a living in the industrial world under conditions corruptive of health and future motherhood.

"Organization is the sole hope of labor. The ballot as a symbol of power is indispensable to its work."

"Thirty thousand women, during the big shirtwaist makers' strike in New York last long ago, marched in a body to make an appeal to the Mayor. The Mayor was not interested. Had they been 20,000 men, voters or prospective voters, he would have been vitally interested."

"The best advocates of women's suffrage do not think it will reform or purify politics. They believe and know that politics is going to be reformed. There are many women who do not know enough to want the ballot," concluded Dr. Eastman.

Co-Operative Association Will Largely Extend Field of Endeavor.

Determined to prosecute the work of the Co-operative Association of Virginia on a much larger scale than heretofore, the finance committee of the association yesterday morning, at a meeting held in the office of Henry W. Anderson, started a subscription list. The committee gave evidence of their earnestness by themselves putting down their names for sums aggregating $1,100.

It was decided that the office force of the association should be augmented to permit of more complete distribution of literature. The desire is to thoroughly educate the public in the matters of larger and better school-houses, sanitation, ventilation and anything tending to make the schools of the State more efficient.

Further, it was determined to enlarge the work of the director of school leagues, a position now occupied by Mrs. L. R. Dashiell. She will be enabled to travel more generally, taking up the organization of local leagues throughout Virginia.

Amounts contributed were as follows: Major J. H. Donley, $100; John Stewart Bryan, $100; Fred B. Darling, $100; Henry W. Anderson, $100; Murray Dockel, $200.

Mrs. H. I. Munford, the president of the association, Henry W. Anderson, John Stewart Bryan and Executive Secretary J. H. Binford were present at the meeting.

At each company meeting this week Dr. J. Fulmer Bright, the battalion surgeon, has been present, and has made talks to the men, explaining the treatment and its results, and recommending that all be vaccinated.

Major E. W. Rowley said last night that he trusts every member of the Blues will avail himself of this opportunity to be treated and he thinks there is no doubt that the enlisted men will be glad to have the disease which is the bane of all such camps.

HOLIDAY GIFTS STOLEN BY BOYS

David True, Willard Caudle and a Negro Admit Robbing Adams Express Company.

SEEKING PARDON FOR TRUE

Prisoners Plead Guilty in Police Court, and Each Given 30 Days in Jail.

Admitting their guilt and placing themselves on the mercy of the court, David True and Willard Caudle, wait, and Roy Smith, colored, were sentenced to thirty days in jail for robbing the Adams Express Company during the holidays. Roy Smith got an overcoat valued at $30; Caudle took a pair of shoes worth $2.50, while True admitted that he had taken a Kodak camera and a camera. Though nothing more has been discovered so far, it is expected that a number of other articles missed by the express company will be recovered in the next few days from the pawnshops and other sources.

The case was investigated by Police-Inspector Andrews, who arrested the negro, who had confessed and implicated the two white men, who were employed as drivers. They were arrested Monday, being on Smith's information. A good deal of the property has been recovered and returned to the company. He alone is said to have stolen the camera, being on Smith's information, telling yet how much the other had stolen but the police are still on the watch for it.

Stole Holiday Gifts.
With their wagonloads of Christmas presents and the company had rushed to make deliveries promptly. It was easy for them to get into the store, and they wanted from the wagon. Smith also profited by the chance and took his share. At that season of the year the company was crowded with business, and he let the reported losses go by and make investigations afterwards, so it was rather late when the company was checked up and investigations made. Smith being the first to be caught, made a clean breast of the matter, and he got to get the others into it. None of them seems more than twenty-one years of age.

So far as is known, this is the first time that the property has been recovered and returned to the company. He alone is said to have stolen the camera, being on Smith's information, telling yet how much the other had stolen but the police are still on the watch for it.

More recently a mass-meeting has been held at the school building, which is represented as being overcrowded, in unsanitary condition, and now well arranged for school purposes.

Director Ezekiel's Report Shows How Much Water City Used in December.

The regular monthly report of the settling basins and laboratory is in the hands of Superintendent David of the Water Department. Director Ezekiel, of the settling basins, reports 373,000.00 gallons of water cleared during December, a daily average of 12,000,000 gallons. The average amount of alum used was 1.44 grains per gallon. The water was cleared at a cost of $1.70 per 1,000,000 gallons.

The general character of water in January was clear, but highly colored; the effluent from the settling basins was of the usual high standard. The total per cent. reduction between the raw river water and the effluent from the basins was 56 per cent. for turbidity, 62 per cent. for color, and 94 per cent. for bacteria.

A branch laboratory, fitted out with supplies from the settling basins laboratory, has been placed at the Washington Ward filtration plant. Daily tests for turbidity and alkalinity will be made. The laboratory is under the supervision of Mr. Ezekiel, the tests will be made by the mechanic located at the plant.

OVERCOATS STOLEN
Open Door Gives Sneak Thief a Chance to Steal.

While J. E. Beecher and a number of friends were in the parlor at 3 East Franklin Street last night, a sneak thief dropped into the house, unlocked the door, and stole a hat, all to the value of $7.75. After the thief had been seen, the loss was reported to the police.

Policeman Tiller was sent at once to the house, but as he found a list of the stolen property was no wiser than when he left the station-house. Those at Beecher's house did not see or hear anything else unusual. The first that was known of it was when some one went into the hall and found the door unlocked. As there is no tangible clue the detectives probably will work on the supposition that the thief is one of the remaining members of the overcoat gang that has been operating so largely this winter.

CAME BACK AGAIN ONLY TO BE PUT UNDER ARREST
Jim Powell, colored, was arrested last night on a warrant charging him with cutting Alonzo Allen last March. Immediately after the arrest he was taken to the station and held until yesterday. He had not been forgotten, and spent but a few hours here before he was in a cell.

According to Allen's story, Powell came to his home "charged up," saying that he owed him 10 cents and wanting vengeance. He was not paid immediately. Allen asked him to get away, saying that he had either a knife or a pistol, and he did not know which. Then he threw up his arm, and when it came down there was a knife in his hand. After he had seen the knife, he did not know whether to be called, he took his knife and ran.

HARD TO SOLVE

Many Buildings Now in Use Have Outlived Their Day and Are Crowded.

NO BOND ISSUE LIKELY

Continuous Appropriation Only Means by Which Remedy Can Be Supplied.

Under the leadership of Superintendent J. A. C. Chandler, of the public school system of Richmond, a crusade for better school buildings is being inaugurated, which will result in a new school building, which will be a model of modern architecture, and will be a credit to the city. The situation as regards school buildings is such that it will require a close study on the part of both the School Board and Finance Committee, many of the buildings now in use for both white and colored children being old, dilapidated and unsuited for their purposes. In fact, it is now frankly admitted that the erection of the new school building, which will be a model of modern architecture, and will be a credit to the city, is a task of no small magnitude, and that the district schools, which have been crowded in their development by reason of the centering of attention on the single great High School building.

Patron Demanding Better Conditions.
In some section of the city patrons of the schools are taking the matter in their own hands, notably at Bellevue and Madison.

Some of the citizens, led by Principal Saunders, of Bellevue school, appeared before the Finance Committee in support of a proposition to purchase what is known as the Van Lee property, owned by Dr. Parker, as a location for the new school building.

More recently a mass-meeting has been held at the school building, which is represented as being overcrowded, in unsanitary condition, and now well arranged for school purposes.

Have Served Their Time.
It is an admitted fact that many of the school buildings now in use are so old and dilapidated that they must be replaced. In the early seventies the city raised money by a bond issue and erected a number of school houses, which are still in use. The High School, now used by the John Smith school, Nicholson school, Fulton, Bellevue school, at Twenty-second and Street, and the school at Twenty-second and Cary Streets, and Lehigh school, at First and Leigh, recently transferred to the new school building, and made into the Armstrong High School for colored pupils. When these buildings were erected the city was still in the infancy of its growth, and the best that could be done under the circumstances, and have all been in continuous use since 1873. They were built by the city, and have served their purpose well.

Several years ago, on urgent recommendation of Building Inspector Beek, extensive repairs were made at several of the older schools, and the inspector threatened to condemn Bellevue outright unless provision were made for greater safety of the pupils in case of fire. The repairs were made, and the buildings are now in a safe condition.

According to school officials who have looked into the matter, the school architecture has made great advances in recent years, as is shown by what is being accomplished in the new buildings. The new buildings are equipped with modern systems of heating, lighting and ventilating, and are in a safe condition. ## NEGRO MUST SERVE TERM IN PRISON

Supreme Court Refuses to Interfere—Dentist Loses Suit for Damages.

Through the refusal of the Supreme Court to interfere, Clarence Johnson, a colored youth from Botetourt county, must serve a term of two years in the penitentiary for participation in a shooting affair. A writ of error was refused Johnson by the court yesterday.

Counsel for the boy made an earnest plea, saying that the verdict was altogether unjust, and that the evidence did not show that Johnson had any hand in the offense. The jury was jointly with Robert Thomas for shooting E. T. Gilliland, but he elected to be tried separately from Thomas.

The two negroes—Johnson and Thomas—were on their way on an ordinary train en route from the Light House, to Eagle Rock, where a passenger train could be caught. Gilliland ordered them off, and in the altercation which followed Thomas shot him. The contention was that Johnson got off the train three minutes after he received the order, and that he had no connection with Thomas's crime.

Elected From Car.
A writ of error was also denied in the case of W. H. Pearson against the Electric Light and Power Company and Electric Company of the City of Richmond. Dr. Pearson, who is a dentist at Hamilton, in his possession some tickets which he sold to the public by the street railway company under a permit from the State Corporation Commission. These tickets were sold at a low rate, and had certain restrictions.

Dr. Pearson repeatedly offered the tickets to conductors after their sale had been discontinued by permission of the Corporation Commission, and were not to be used after that time. He was notified that they were not to be used, and he refused to accept the notice.

However, he persisted in offering the tickets to conductors, and was notified that they were not to be used. He brought suit for $2,500 damages, for the injury to his business. The verdict now stands.

It was stated by the railway company in its answer that the dentist desired to be elected.
